Surveillance of injuries:

LCHIC carries out numerous surveys and collects data alone and in conjunction with PA Department of Health and other agencies of the Commonwealth. Individual providers and Lycoming County also collect data. Information is gathered at the point of service, in observational surveillance (such as for seat belt use compliance), and through professionally developed surveys. In addition, the PA Department of Health gathers data and makes it available, both in detailed reports and in reports that can be customized to specific research needs. Sources include death certificates and hospital discharges. Locally, health care providers, county agencies, and other service providers gather data that is sometimes protected by privacy requirements.

Numbers per year: continuing and varies

Population base: estimated at 117,688
